

RSU Global!

DECEMBER 2025

www.ilc.rsu.ac.th □ ISSUE 004

As we reach December and the end of Term 1, RSU Global! reflects on a semester filled with learning, teamwork, and meaningful connections. Over the past months, PAL Center has really become a place where students feel more confident and supported.

As we move toward Term 2, I'm excited to see what we can achieve together.

As the Student Commissioner, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to our Head Team Leaders and Team Leaders for their dedication in ensuring mentoring sessions ran smoothly, and to our mentors for their commitment to organizing mentoring sessions and helping students practice and improve their communication skills. Their efforts have played an important role in creating a positive and welcoming learning environment.

This newsletter of the term highlights our journey, shared experiences, and achievements. As we close this chapter of the semester, we carry forward the lessons, friendships, and memories that make RSU Global! a truly meaningful community. Together, we remain committed to fostering growth, confidence, and meaningful connections among our students. Thank you to everyone who contributed their time and effort to making this term a success.

RIC PEER MENTOR OF THE MONTH

RSU Global! is proud to announce Yu Ohnmar Khaing Min, a second-year Biomedical Science student, as our Peer Mentor of the Month for December 2025.

Her Head Team Leader shared that she is enthusiastic about teaching, encourages students to communicate confidently, and works well under pressure. Even when there are many students and few mentors, she willingly takes on more learners and never hesitates to help whether with interview practice or follow-up questions after mentoring hours.

Reflecting on her PAL experience, Yu Ohnmar Khaing Min said she was initially nervous about communicating with students from different nationalities, but soon found joy in exchanging languages, cultures, and communication styles. These interactions helped build a stronger community. She believes the most valuable lesson is that intercultural learning requires curiosity and flexibility. She encourages all students to join PAL as a great opportunity to improve English, communication skills, and learn from peers of various backgrounds. Thank you, Yu Ohnmar Khaing Min, for your contribution to RSU Global!

CULTURE CORNER

Natdaw Full Moon Day is a meaningful Buddhist festival in Myanmar, usually celebrated in December according to the traditional lunar calendar. Natdaw is known as the “month of wisdom” because it is dedicated to learning, literature, and paying respect to teachers. On this full moon day, people begin their morning by offering alms, food, candles, and robes to monks, believing these good deeds will bring peace, protection, and good fortune. Many families visit monasteries and pagodas together, making donations in honor of loved ones. Students often show respect to their teachers by offering small gifts or helping with community work. In some regions, traditional nat ceremonies are also held, where villagers make offerings to guardian spirits for safety and prosperity.

Although Natdaw Full Moon Day is quieter than major festivals like Thadingyut or Tazaungdaing, it carries a peaceful and reflective atmosphere. The day encourages people to think about kindness, gratitude, and the value of education. It is a time when communities come together to support monasteries, help those in need, and strengthen their spiritual lives. Overall, Natdaw Full Moon Day is a simple but heartfelt celebration that reminds everyone to practice generosity, respect, and mindfulness.

PROGRAMS IN ACTION: HOW RSU GLOBAL! ALIGNS WITH THESE RIC COURSES:

ENL/ILE 125: ENGLISH FOR GLOBAL EXPLORATION

This course helps students build a strong English foundation while exploring global issues and cultures.

Through collaboration with RSU GLOBAL, students participate in discussions, projects, and interactive tasks that promote cultural understanding. Learners practice communication and presentation skills by engaging with multimedia resources, real-world situations, and group activities. By reflecting on global topics, they broaden their perspectives and develop analytical thinking. The course strengthens confidence, fluency, and the ability to communicate across cultures while preparing students for international academic and social environments.

ENL/ILE 126: ENGLISH IN TED

This course focuses on speaking and presentation skills through a TED-style learning approach.

Students work with RSU GLOBAL mentors to practice delivering speeches, presenting ideas, and expressing opinions creatively and confidently. They analyze authentic TED talks to understand structure, storytelling techniques, and audience engagement. Through group practice, peer feedback, and performance-based tasks, learners improve pronunciation, clarity, and stage presence. The course prepares students to think critically, share meaningful ideas, and communicate effectively in global and professional settings.

ENL/ILE 127: ENGLISH AT WORK

Aligned with RSU GLOBAL's vision, this course develops English skills needed for modern workplaces and professional communication.

Students participate in role-plays, meetings, email writing, and workplace simulations that mirror real business situations. They learn how to collaborate, solve problems, and communicate professionally across cultures. By integrating teamwork, critical thinking, and communication strategies, the course strengthens confidence and adaptability. Learners become more prepared for internships, international programs, and future careers requiring effective English skills.

RSU/IRS 127: INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION

This course supports RSU GLOBAL's mission by helping students understand and communicate across different cultures.

Learners explore cultural values, communication styles, and real-world scenarios through activities, case studies, and collaboration with PAL mentors. The course builds global awareness, empathy, and adaptability. By comparing cultural perspectives and practicing communication strategies, students gain the confidence to navigate diverse environments. This course helps them become open-minded global citizens who can contribute positively to multicultural communities and professional networks.

UPCOMING PEER MENTOR TRAINING MODULES BY OUR PRODEV TEAM:

Professional Communication for Global Mentors

Effective communication is the foundation of successful mentoring at RSU Global. For mentors, it means sharing information clearly, respectfully, and appropriately to build credibility, strengthen relationships, and cross-cultural interactions smoothly.

Key practices include using professional emails, maintaining respectful communication on apps like LINE, and showing professionalism through punctuality and active listening. Mentors should communicate with empathy, think before responding, and stay consistent to create a supportive environment.

Intercultural Problem-Solving: Handling Difficult Situations the Right Way

Intercultural problem-solving is basically about understanding people who come from different cultures and communicate in different ways.

When we slow down, ask questions, and try to understand the other person's meaning, things become much clearer. Adjusting our communication a little can prevent small issues from turning into bigger problems. Overall, intercultural problem-solving helps us work better with others, avoid unnecessary conflict, and create an environment where everyone feels respected and included.

RESEARCH PROJECTS PLANNED:

DR. EDWARD'S RESEARCH FACTORY

During the current academic term, Dr. Edward Devere Bacon, Director of RSU Global!, is leading four major research projects. Working closely with Deputy Director Ajarn Gary, they are jointly overseeing the progress of these initiatives and are actively engaged in the systematic collection of data that will form the foundation for multiple academic publications.

Over 100 Team Leaders, hundreds of peer mentors, and potentially thousands of Thai students are involved (the actual participant numbers can be seen on the following page). Each project is expected to produce at least five academic papers for submission to Q1 or Q2 Scopus-indexed journals, with an estimated 40 papers projected within the next 12 months.

Following data collection in Term 1, Term 2 will launch Dr. Edward's Research Factory, an academic program designed to instruct RIC undergraduates on how to write high-quality papers and provide opportunities to co-author publications, significantly strengthening their CVs for graduate school.

THAI MENTEES:

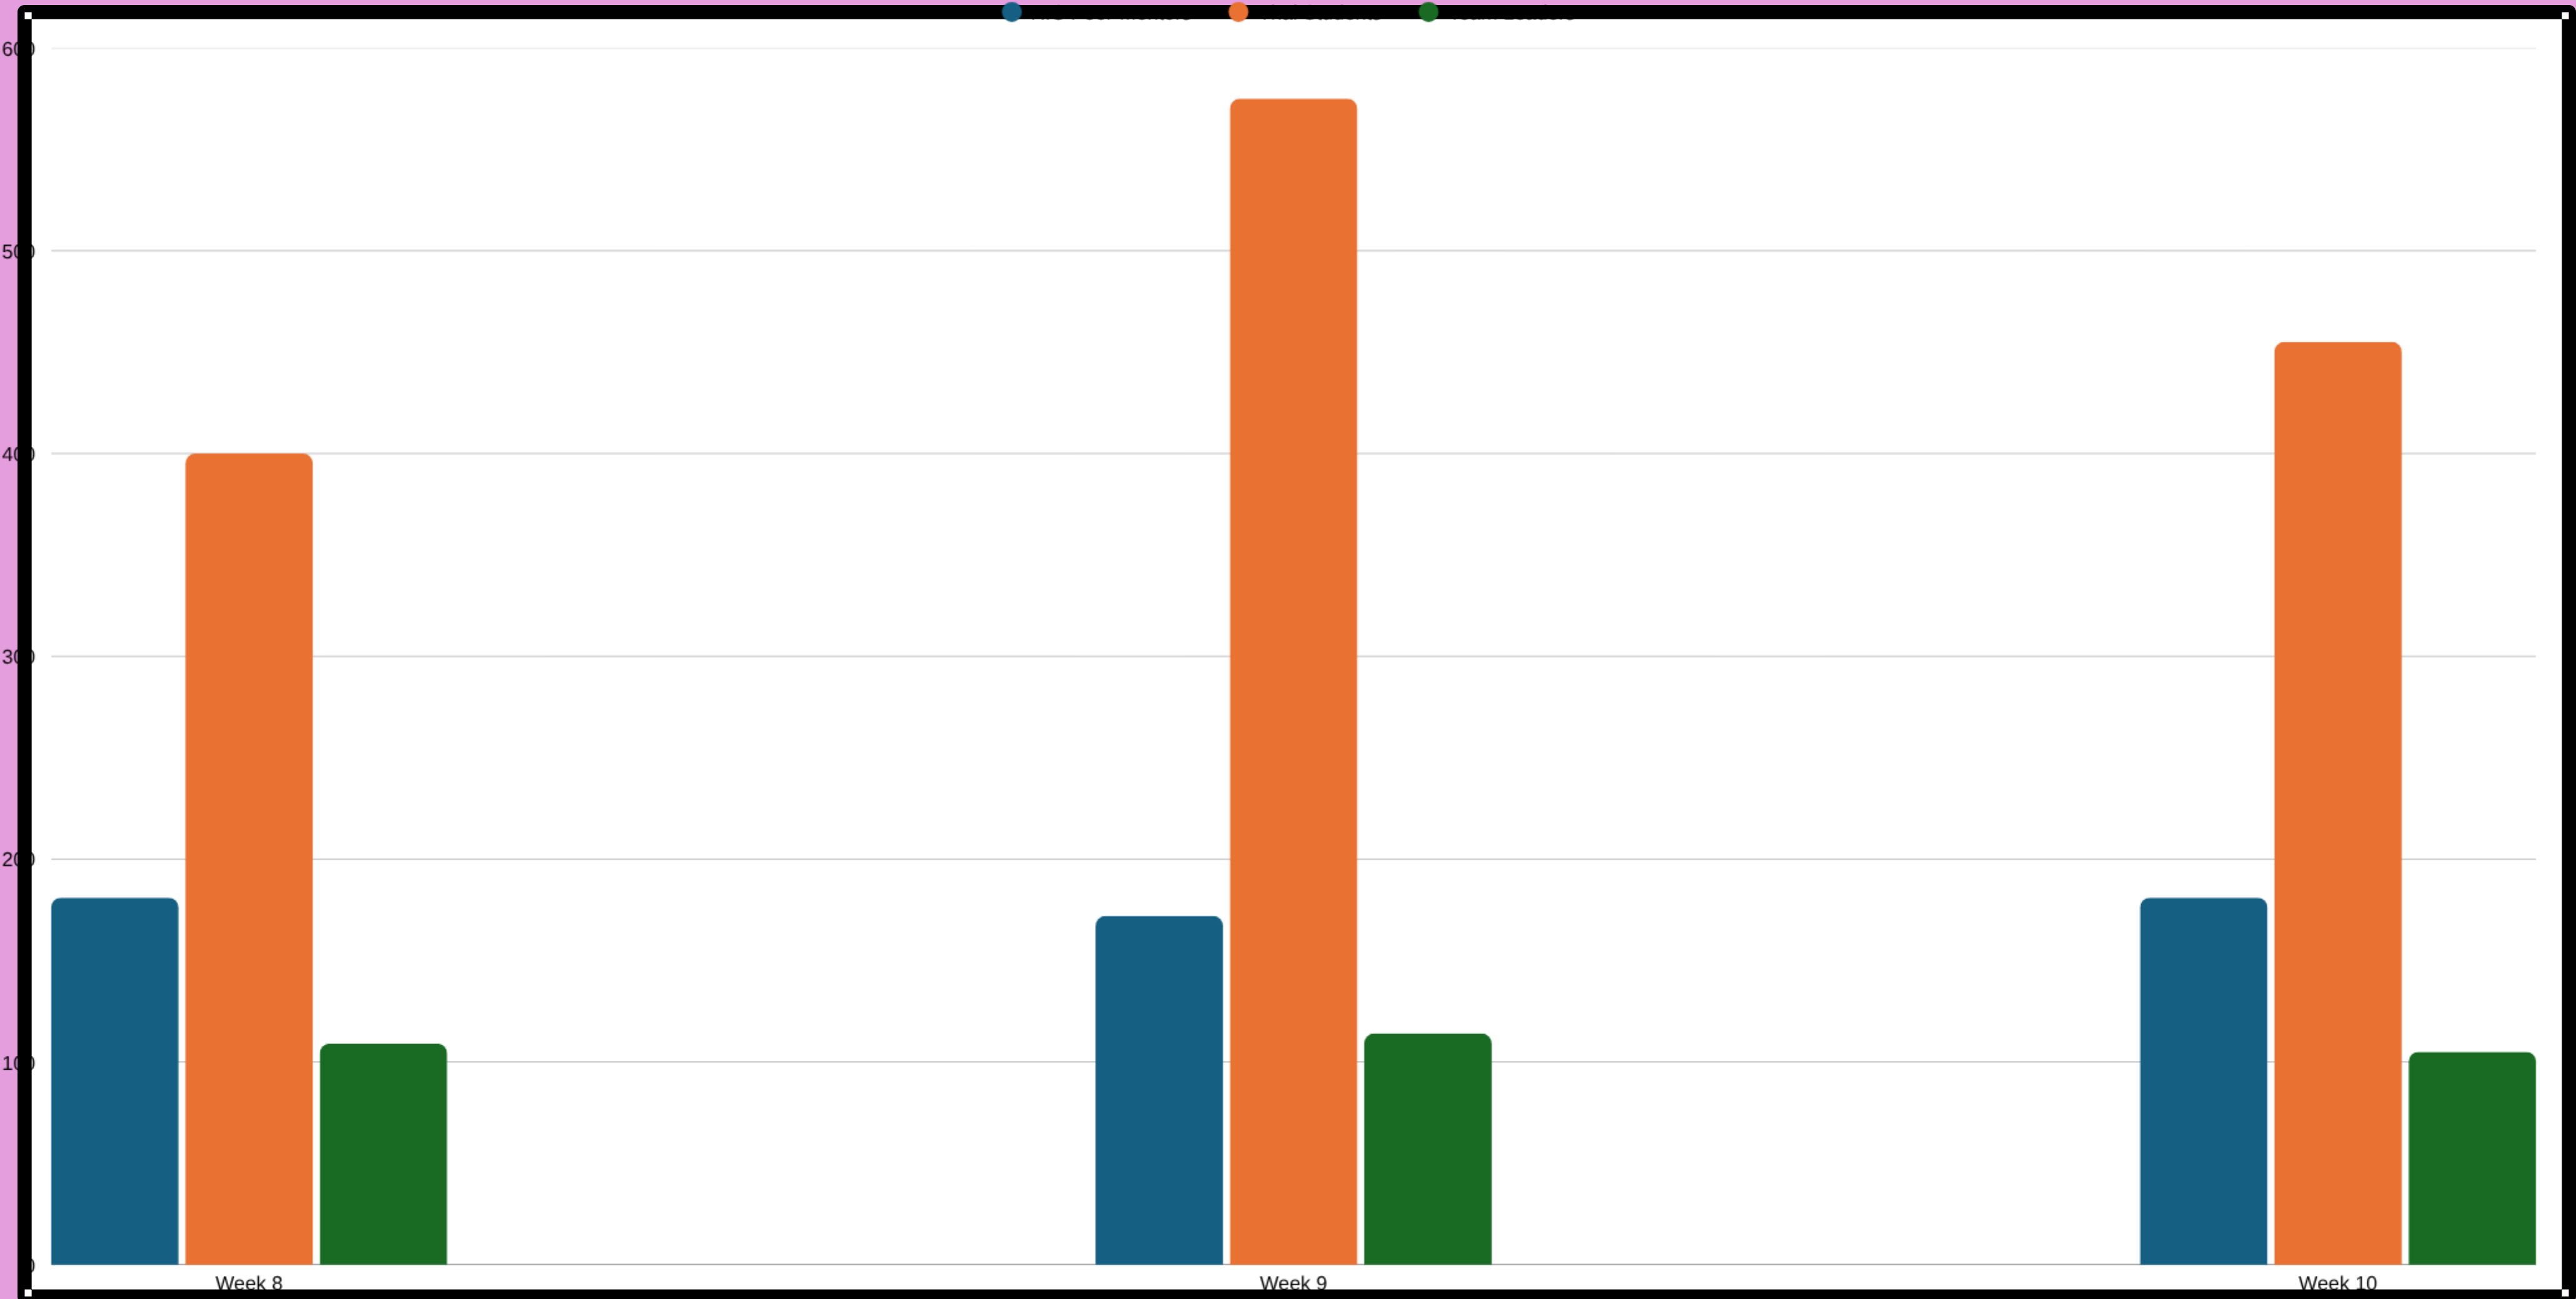

ENL/ILE 126: ENGLISH IN TED (THAI PROGRAM)

Students in this course develop their communication skills through collaborative activities and supportive peer interaction. By taking part in group discussions, sharing ideas, and practicing language use in a comfortable environment, learners gradually gain the confidence to express themselves more clearly and effectively.

In addition, the course encourages students to build meaningful connections with one another while strengthening their ability to communicate in real-world situations. Through guided tasks, interactive exercises, and practical communication practice, students enhance essential skills that prepare them for academic presentations, professional conversations, and global engagement.
