www.ilc.rsu.ac.th □ ISSUE 005

As February begins, RSU Global continues to develop into a welcoming environment where students feel supported, included, and motivated to learn together. What truly makes our community unique is not just the programs we offer, but the people who make them possible.

As the Student Commissioner of RSU Global, I am thankful to collaborate with such a committed team. Our Head Team Leaders demonstrate strong responsibility and effective communication, ensuring that our mentoring programs run efficiently. I would like to express my sincere appreciation to our mentors for their dedication, time, and support. Through your guidance, students build confidence, enhance their communication skills, and grow both academically and personally. Together, we have created a respectful and encouraging community where students feel at ease to learn and share their ideas. This month's newsletter highlights our ongoing progress, and I am excited to continue working together to make this semester meaningful for everyone. We remain dedicated to strengthening our mentoring initiatives and providing more opportunities for student growth. Let us continue to support each other with positivity, teamwork, and a shared sense of purpose. I am confident that, together, we will achieve even greater success in the months ahead.

RIC PEER MENTOR OF THE MONTH

A peer mentor is a fellow student who helps students get used to university life by offering advice and assistance.

Peer mentors are crucial in helping children both intellectually and emotionally. Along with encouragement that boosts confidence, they provide study advice, language practice, and educational materials. Additionally, they foster a welcoming atmosphere and assist incoming students throughout orientation. Peer mentors make students feel more connected, inspired, and supported by bridging the gap between them and their teachers. Under their direction, they foster cooperation, teamwork, and a supportive learning environment at the Language Center. In order to improve the community and offer more individualised support, the objective is to have more peer mentors during the semester. One peer mentor is honoured each month for their devotion, hard work, and beneficial influence on students and the Language Center. We sincerely value their commitment and diligence. Both staff and students are still motivated by their excellent influence. We look forward to seeing continued growth in our peer mentoring program and the positive impact it will bring to the entire community.

CULTURE CORNER

The Tabodwe Festival is an important traditional celebration in Myanmar, usually held in February during the full moon of the Tabodwe month. It marks the harvest season and reflects the values of community, gratitude, and religious devotion in Burmese culture. One of the main highlights of the festival is the preparation of htamane, a special sticky rice dish made with coconut, sesame seeds, peanuts, and ginger. People gather in groups, often at night, to cook large quantities together. The cooking process requires teamwork, as participants take turns stirring the rice in large pans over an open fire. In many communities, friendly competitions are held to see who can make the best htamane.

In addition to cooking, people visit temples and monasteries to make offerings to monks and perform good deeds. These activities are believed to bring merit and blessings. The Tabodwe Festival also brings people closer together. Families, friends, and neighbors share food and enjoy time together. Overall, the festival represents unity, generosity, and the importance of cultural traditions in Myanmar.

During the February academic period, a research study titled "Beyond Academic Support: Peer-Assisted Learning and Intercultural Engagement in Thai Business Education" is being conducted. This study explores how Peer-Assisted Learning (PAL) extends beyond its traditional academic support role to serve as a meaningful platform for intercultural engagement among Thai business students.

Focusing on collaborative learning environments, the research examines how students from diverse cultural backgrounds interact and learn from one another. It highlights the role of PAL in encouraging active participation, improving communication skills, and fostering a deeper understanding of cultural differences within academic settings.

The study emphasizes that Peer-Assisted Learning not only supports academic achievement but also contributes significantly to the development of cultural awareness and mutual respect. Through structured peer collaboration, students are able to exchange perspectives, enhance teamwork, and build essential intercultural competencies relevant to global business environments.
